At least 45 bars and restaurants in Phoenix have closed amid the COVID-19 pandemic

For weeks now, restaurants in many Arizona counties, including Maricopa County, the largest county in the state, have been able to reopen their dining rooms at 50% capacity, while continuing to offer takeout, pickup, and delivery. Bars that serve food have also been able to reopen, as long as they reopen as a "restaurant." Traditional bars that do not serve food must remain closed.
